The Washington State Land Commission, together with an Office of Commissioner of Public Lands, was established in 1890. The State Land Commission was superseded in 1893 by the Board of State Land Commissioners. In 1911 the State Forester became the State Fire Warden, whose functions were assigned to the Division of Forestry in 1921. In 1957 the Board of State Land Commissioners, the Division of Forestry, and the State Forest Board (established in 1923) were merged to form the Dept. of Natural Resources.
The Dept. of Conservation was created in 1957 to supersede the Dept. of Conservation and Development. In 1967 all functions of the Dept. of Conservation, except those belonging to its Division of Water Resources, were transferred to the Dept. of Natural Resources. At the same time the Division of Water Resources (created in 1921 to replace the State Hydraulic Engineer), the Columbia Basin Commission (established in 1933), and the Weather Modification Board (established in 1957) were merged to form the Dept. of Water Resources.

The Washington State Land Commission, together with an Office of Commissioner of Public Lands, was established in 1890. The State Land Commission was superseded in 1893 by the Board of State Land Commissioners. In 1911 the State Forester became the State Fire Warden, whose functions were assigned to the Division of Forestry in 1921. In 1957 the Board of State Land Commissioners, the Division of Forestry, and the State Forest Board (established in 1923) were merged to form the Dept. of Natural Resources.

The Dept. of Conservation was created in 1957 to supersede the Dept. of Conservation and Development. In 1967 all functions of the Dept. of Conservation, except those belonging to its Division of Water Resources, were transferred to the Dept. of Natural Resources. At the same time the Division of Water Resources (created in 1921 to replace the State Hydraulic Engineer), the Columbia Basin Commission (established in 1933), and the Weather Modification Board (established in 1957) were merged to form the Dept. of Water Resources.

Washington (State). State Hydraulic Engineer.
The Washington State Land Commission, together with an Office of Commissioner of Public Lands, was established in 1890. The State Land Commission was superseded in 1893 by the Board of State Land Commissioners. In 1911 the State Forester became the State Fire Warden, whose functions were assigned to the Division of Forestry in 1921. In 1957 the Board of State Land Commissioners, the Division of Forestry, and the State Forest Board (established in 1923) were merged to form the Dept. of Natural Resources.
The Dept. of Conservation was created in 1957 to supersede the Dept. of Conservation and Development. In 1967 all functions of the Dept. of Conservation, except those belonging to its Division of Water Resources, were transferred to the Dept. of Natural Resources. At the same time the Division of Water Resources (created in 1921 to replace the State Hydraulic Engineer), the Columbia Basin Commission (established in 1933), and the Weather Modification Board (established in 1957) were merged to form the Dept. of Water Resources.

Washington (State). Weather Modification Board.
The Washington State Land Commission, together with an Office of Commissioner of Public Lands, was established in 1890. The State Land Commission was superseded in 1893 by the Board of State Land Commissioners. In 1911 the State Forester became the State Fire Warden, whose functions were assigned to the Division of Forestry in 1921. In 1957 the Board of State Land Commissioners, the Division of Forestry, and the State Forest Board (established in 1923) were merged to form the Dept. of Natural Resources.
The Dept. of Conservation was created in 1957 to supersede the Dept. of Conservation and Development. In 1967 all functions of the Dept. of Conservation, except those belonging to its Division of Water Resources, were transferred to the Dept. of Natural Resources. At the same time the Division of Water Resources (created in 1921 to replace the State Hydraulic Engineer), the Columbia Basin Commission (established in 1933), and the Weather Modification Board (established in 1957) were merged to form the Dept. of Water Resources.
Works by these bodies are found under the following headings according to the name used at the time of publication:
Washington (State). Board of State Land Commissioners.

West Cameroon.
Southern Cameroons, a British trusteeship territory, was administratively attached to the Eastern Region of Nigeria until 1954, when it became a separate government. In 1960, French Cameroons, also a trusteeship territory, became independent as the Republic of Cameroun.

The Federal Republic of Cameroon was constituted in 1961 by the union of the Republic of Cameroun and Southern Cameroons.

Within the Federal Republic, territories of the former Republic of Cameroun became the federated state of East Cameroon, and territories of the former Southern Cameroons became the federated state of West Cameroon.

In 1972, as a result of a national referendum, the Federal Republic became the United Republic of Cameroon. The two states of East Cameroon and West Cameroon were abolished, and the country was reorganized into a larger number of provinces.

Works by the Republic of Cameroun (Jan. 1, 1960-Sept. 30, 1961) are found under the French name
Cameroun.

Works by the Federal Republic of Cameroon (Oct. 1, 1961-June 1, 1972) and the United Republic of Cameroon (June 2, 1972- ) are found under the English name
Cameroon.

Works by other jurisdictions are found under the following headings according to the name used at the time of publication:
Cameroons, Southern.
Cameroons, French.
East Cameroon.
West Cameroon.

SUBJECT ENTRY: Works about these jurisdictions are normally entered under Cameroon, regardless of period covered. However, works limited in subject coverage to the historical, political or cultural aspects of Southern Cameroons and/or West Cameroon for the pre-1972 period are entered under West Cameroon. Works limited in subject coverage to the historical, political or cultural aspects of French Cameroons, the Republic of Cameroun and/or East Cameroon for the pre-1972 period are entered under East Cameroon.

West Oahu College.
The College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts of the Territory of Hawaii was established on the island of Oahu in 1907. In 1911, it became the College of Hawaii, and in 1919, the University of Hawaii. In 1964, the University was authorized by the State legislature to operate a state-wide community college system, and other campuses were consequently established.

In 1970, the University of Hawaii at Hilo system, subsidiary to the University of Hawaii, was established on the island of Hawaii. Under its jurisdiction was the 4-year Hilo College, and three other institutions.

In 1972, a reorganization of the University of Hawaii took place in which a state-wide central administration was established to oversee the multi-island system. At that time, the main campus in Honolulu became known as the University of Hawaii at Manoa.

Works by the university at the main campus published before the 1972 reorganization are found under:
Hawaii. University, Honolulu.
Works by the central university system published since the reorganization in 1972 are found under:

University of Hawaii (System)
Works published by the university at the main campus after the 1972 reorganization are found under:
University of Hawaii at Manoa.
Works published by the institutions at the various other campuses are entered under their own names:
University of Hawaii at Hilo.
West Oahu College.
Honolulu Community College.
Kapiolani Community College.
Kaua'I Community College.
Leeward Community College.
Maui Community College.
Windward Community College.
SUBJECT ENTRY: Works about these bodies are entered under the name or names in existence during the latest period for which subject coverage is given. In the case where the required name is represented in this catalog only under a later form of the name, entry is made under the later form.

Western State, Nigeria.
Western Provinces of Nigeria, created in 1939, became Western Region of Nigeria in 1951, Western Nigeria in 1961, Western Group of Provinces of Nigeria in 1966, and Western State of Nigeria in 1967. The latter was abolished when Nigeria was reorganized in 1976.
Works by these jurisdictions are found under the following headings according to the name used at the time of publication:
Western Provinces, Nigeria.
Western Region of Nigeria.
Western Nigeria.
Western Group of Provinces of Nigeria.
Western State, Nigeria.
SUBJECT ENTRY: Works about these jurisdictions are generally entered under the names of the present jurisdictions, Oyo, Nigeria (State); Ogun, Nigeria (State); and/or Ondo, Nigeria (State). However, works on historical, political or cultural aspects of the combined territory for the pre-1976 period are entered under Western State, Nigeria.
